Freedom Has Come For Jeremy Brown

Last Wednesday, February 26th Jeremy Brown finally walked out of the prison doors. He has reunited with his mother, appeared on Alex Jones, and is taking time to recover from being incarcerated according to his X page. Please pray for him and all the Jan6ers who were incarcerated for prolonged periods of time. This world is a lot when one has not been in it for years.

One more J6 Win. Political Hostage Ben Martin's Release is Unopposed by the Government | The Gateway Pundit | by Jenn Baker

Benjamin Martin Freedom Is Coming

Following the release of Jeremy Brown there is an expectation that two more will soon be free from incarceration. Benjamin Martin should be released this week and Elias Constanes should be free again shortly. Both Ben and Elias have charges that would not have been brought against them if there had not been a raid on their homes for January 6th. Thanks to the tireless work of many lawyers and the CondemnedUSA organization these cases should soon be put behind these men.

Thanks to Condemned Dan Wilson will also not have to report back to prison as he was supposed to do last Thursday. Before learning Dan would not have to report back to prison, he sat down with Jenn Baker for her Flip the Switch w/Jenn podcast.

On the show Dan can talk about his past and how he became an electrician. He tells about going to the capital on January 6th to help protect people. Dan is a III%er and worked with and knows many in the Oath Keeper and Proud

Boys organizations.

Dan tells of when his city was being destroyed in the Breonna Taylor riots and how he became security. He simply showed up while watching a live stream and knowing his town.

While he was incarcerated, he was in Beckley, WV, one of the worst prisons in the country. Through his incarceration, and due to helping everyone before going to prison he lost his home and could use help getting back on his feet.

“The Silent Heroes Instead of the Loud Story Tellers”

There were at least a dozen men (and women) who witnessed the death of Rosanne Boyland on January 6th, 2021. Most of them were rounded up, charged, convicted (mostly of assault on an officer), and sent off to prison. That was supposed to keep them from telling her story I think, but there are people out there profiting off the story of Rosanne’s death.

In the words of Rosanne’s father “the loud story tellers” are publishing books and making money off what they say happened to Rosanne at the capital that day. The problem is Steve Baker, and others can take published books and look at MPD body cam footage as well as Capitol police security footage and find differing stories.

American Shield is supposed to be the autobiography of former U.S. Capitol Police Sgt. Aquilino Gonell. Standing My Ground is Harry Dunn’s book that was also proven false. This is not the only place these lies were sold to the American people. The Oath Keepers trial, the J6 (un) select committee hearing, the DNC convention, and even the Biden and Harris campaign trail all presented and repeated the events of that day, but they were not accurate.

The article on Blaze Media by Steve Baker gives a timeline of the events surrounding Rosanne’s death that day according to what Baker has seen on footage and a comparison of that timeline to the books both Dunn and Gonell have published. There is little alignment. Some of events that day were sworn to under oath. Who is guilty of lying under oath?

Brian Mock On Do Not Talk

Brian Mock writer and singer of The Stand (To My Boys) that he wrote while incarcerated in the “DC Gulag” appears on Charlee Simons Do Not Talk podcast to tell his story. The episode opens with the song and then continues on with Brian giving his experience that January day. Brian explains that he grew up in that city and he had never seen so many people in the city.

Brian continued talking about the peaceful protest and how and when the massive crowd went from peacefully gathered to what many describe today as a riot. That riot started when police opened fire with rubber bullets on the crowd. Brian explains that he was accused of and charged with assault on an officer. He explains what happened and how prosecutors found “evidence” against him. Then, if the bogus charges were not enough, the enhancements could have kept him incarcerated for 20 years.

Brian walks through both the adventure he is on post pardon and the adventure that was the court proceedings against him. Brian is working on getting Loudermilk to open a real investigation into what happened on January 6th with J6ers and advocates who witnessed and or studied the events of that day. There are things that happened in Brian’s court proceedings that will eventually be to the benefit of the many sitting in federal prison. Brian has also been told many stories of odd events occurring on the day of January 6th that need to be brought to the public and our representatives’ attention.

Condemned USA Legal Advocacy Work

Condemned USA is an organization that wears many hats that was created from the abundant needs of the J6 defendants as they endured prosecution and persecution. The organization created by J6er, Trennis Evans served many and continues those efforts today.

Condemned was among the many organizations and individuals who advocated for the pardon of all J6ers. While there are a handful still incarcerated and fourteen commuted Condemned continues to advocate for them, but this battle has become difficult as many who were supportive during the persecution and prosecution have pulled their funding. The battle is not over, and while it still does include J6ers such as Joe Biggs and has been successful thus far in keeping Dan Wilson from reporting back to prison Condemned is also expanding its legal advocacy. Tina Peters, Jon Woods, and Tyler Burleson are all facing legal issues and are seeking assistance from Condemned. Condemned employs people to assist in their legal advocacy including local Jenn Baker and more recently added as the national spokesperson, Stewart Rhodes.

You can follow all that is going on with this Condemned by visiting <https://condemnedusa.com/> or the Substack at <https://condemnedusa.substack.com/> Donations help!

American Patriot Relief Mark & Jalise Middleton

Mark and Jalise Middleton were defendants as they founded the American Patriot Relief organization. They were sent off to prison while others carried on the work of the organization. Mark and Jalise were among those pardoned and came out and got to work assisting the growing needs after pardons and commutations. They even went to J6 Road Home and assisted there getting tiny homes ready for people to come to live on the property.

The American Patriot Relief organization has a hotline for J6ers and to call and obtain help. That hotline is 1-833-SAVEDJ6 (1-833-728-3356) and is open to receive calls 24/7.

J6 Road Home Serenity

The McCombs couple have a place for the J6ers to come and find peace and rest and navigate their way back to life. There are a couple of J6ers already there and more said to be going there to live and rebuild their lives. There have also been J6ers who stopped there on their road trips. Some who stayed and chatted, were loved on, fed, and made their way down the road and others just began their journey there.

While it is a place of peace, rest, and rebuilding for the J6ers there is an inn on the property for guests. There are also many going there to volunteer their assistance or services hoping to speed up the rebuilding process for those recently released from incarceration.

There is a givesendgo link to watch the progress and donate to the building of tiny homes that will house those staying on the property. You can follow the journey and donate to the building of homes, the first of many steps, at <https://www.givesendgo.com/j6roadhome> While money is a great help to all organizations there is a Get Involved tab on the home page where you can see a list of all the ways you, or someone you know can assist the J6ers in the process of rebuilding their life.
